Dear Ms. Osmer:

Admiral Turner has asked that I respond to your letter of March 14th which invites him to address the Council on Foreign Relations in New York City.

As I discussed with staff members in your office, Admiral Turner has plans to be in the New York area in late June. He would be pleased to accept tentatively an invitation to address the Council on Foreign Relations on Wednesday, June 25th, between the hours of 5:15 and 6:30 p.m. At this time, however, I cannot confirm the Admiral's participation in a discussion dinner due to a pending prior commitment. Should this commitment not crystalize and should you still be interested in hosting such an affair, Admiral Turner would be pleased to participate in this event also.

Let's remain in close communication. I can be reached at

Dear Admiral Turner,

On behalf of the Council on Foreign Relations, I should like to extend an invitation to you to be our guest at a general meeting in your honor here at the Council this spring. I would suggest either Tuesday, May 27 or Thursday, May 29 as possible dates. Our general meetings, as you know, run from 5:15 to 6:30 pm. If you could spare a longer period of time, we would very much like to follow the initial meeting with a small discussion dinner (6:30-8:20 pm) with those of our members particularly interested and involved in intelligence matters. The 8:20 closing would allow you to catch the last shuttle to the National Airport in Washington.

Our members would be interested in your perspectives and insights on any aspect of our current international difficulties which you might choose to discuss. I look forward to an early and favorable reply and to the pleasure of welcoming you to Pratt House again this spring.

Sincerely,

Margaret Osmer
